

Canterbury College English Test (CCET)

At Canterbury College you can sit the Canterbury College English Test (CCET) This is a NZQA-approved test administered by our Director of Study, Keith Burgess. The CCET is a valid form of testing for English language entry requirements for international students accepted by NZQA.

About the CCET

The CCET comprises of two main parts: a written and oral test.

The written test comprises of three parts: grammar, reading and writing. If the CCET is conducted at a Canterbury College campus, the written test will also have a listening section.

The oral test will test a candidate's listening and speaking skills. It is conducted in the form of an interview, and is very candidate-friendly. Candidates are encouraged to relax and talk freely, which in turn allows them to better demonstrate their English ability.

Once the candidate's test has been marked, it is returned to them promptly, along with comments from the marker. These comments show the candidate their strengths and areas that they need to improve on, which is helpful for students that are looking to take their English to the next level!
